Hidden behind silent walls and sedate scenes are the vibrant laughs, sighs, complaints, tears, and joys of youth. Hidden are the dreams, hopes and aspirations of these people who face their future with advantages never known by any other generation. Youth comes only once into each life for a fleeting moment and then it's gone forever...

Every Huntington College student has a well balanced schedule of academic and social occupations to fill his college life. Each year the academic schedule is changed to provide for a broader education. Social life also keeps pace with many new activities for the H. C. student.

From the 7:30 a.m. Monday Social Science class to the Sunday evening worship, the Huntington student has a share in many events that help to enlighten him. From September to June of eoch school year the student has opportunity to grow academically, religiously, and socially.

70 Years—Our Heritage

Three score and ten years ago, on June 1, 1897, a large college building (now Old Ad) was completed by the Huntington Land Association. The last meeting of the Hartsville College Board of Trustees was held on June 15 and that institution, locoted about 40 miles southeast of Indionapolis, turned over all books, records of proceedings, students' grades, and even some faculty members to Central College to be opened in the new building of Huntington. Hartsville College, chartered as Hartsville Academy in 1850, thus was the forerunner of Central College, which changed its name to Huntington College in 1917.

The new institution opened its doors to students on September 22, 1897. Eighty-five students, studying in clossical, philosophical, or scientific courses, in the preachers' normal course, or in the two-year preparatory academic course, graced the new college. The faculty consisted of five regular professors, including President C. H. Kiradofe who also taught four courses, and a volunteer Music professor. The new building was located in a former wheat field, north of the city of Huntington. The College Park community at that time consisted of sixteen dwellings, plus the college building.

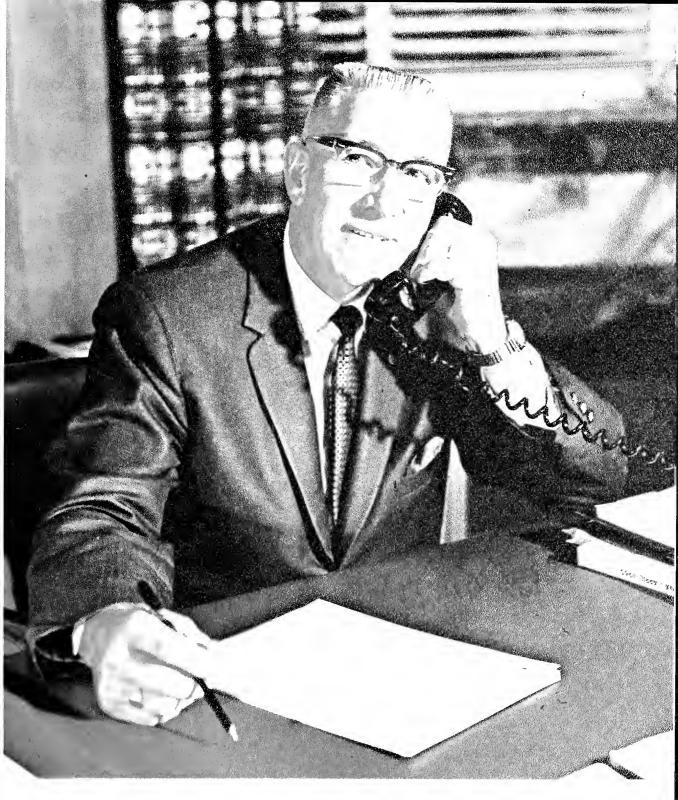

During its first year of operation, Central College received $2,397.22 from the following sources: special donations $286.99; conference collections, $1,320.32; tuition, $997.66; and other sources $12.25. By the end of the first four years of operation, Central College had building and grounds, equipment, lots, etc. valued at $60,500, with an indebtedness of $444.00 (General Conference Proceedings, 1901, p35). The student body at this time numbered 102, with six candidates for graduation.

From the Conference Proceedings of 1901, which included the 1897-98 birth year of our College, we find two interesting items: (1) Besides the amounts of moneys listed obove, "there has been raised in subscription from the citizens of the Park (College Park) and of the City of Huntington for improving the pork grounds a little over $2,000 most of which has been collected and worked out on the grounds." Thus we find that original seeds for our present benevolent town-gown relationship and the Huntington College Foundation began with the birth of the institution seventy years ago. (2) The Senior Bishop of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, who presided at the Quadrennial General Conference held in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania in May, 1901, was Milton Wright, D.D. At thot very time, Bishop Wright's two illustrious sons, Orville and Wilbur, were experimenting with gliders, and they launched their first successful airplane flight two years later. Bishop Wright's name has been memorialized in our Wright Men's Residence Hall.

Upon the foundations described, what has Huntington College become three score and ten years later? An affirmer of the faith liberal arts college and seminary, with approximately forty-five academic and administrative faculty, serving six hundred students annually. A physical plant of ten major buildings, many faculty residences, a 99 acre campus plus a 77 acre Biological Research Station near Huntington, and evaluation of three million dollars. An Alma Mater to some three thousand students. An enduring example proving Matthew 6:33, Christian character and true culture blend.

Three score years ond ten. The span of life. The air age. The developmental years for Huntington College, upon which foundations we expect to grow into a greater, more positive, educational force for Christ, the Church, and the Community.

Dr. E. De Witt Baker Our President

In 1897—The Administration

Completed in 1897, The Administration Building has seen many events in its 70 years. Housing odministrative offices, classrooms, bookstore, mail room, print shop, and the student lounge, the Administration Building is a very busy place.

Huntington College Is

Deceiving the unwary passerby, these views of the Huntington College campus portray a quiet, sedate community. Hawever, whether by night (as above) or by day (as at the right) the real members of the college family knaw it's anything but quiet and sedate!

Buildings alone cannot begin to show the true callege life. Because college life is an ever changing kaleidoscope, pausing only a moment before revealing another facet.

I Should Be Studying, But....

Any college student knows you're never really "caught up". There's always an upcoming exam, outside reading, or a report (that should've been done yesterday) to accupy time. Still, everyone must relax sometime and college students are no exception.

Whether its a planned activity or a spontaneous jam session, informality rules and amid a sprinkling of 'pollock' jokes you're sure to hear a 'remember when we....', and after all, how could we farget?

Time Invested Reaps Reward

Huntington emphasizes the academic education too. Whether in the library or dorm room, many hours are devoted to study; as each student well knows.

H.C.'s Ambassadors-at-Large Display Their

Using their musical talents to the glory of God, various groups of students sing to all kinds of organizations, service groups, and churches. They also perform frequently in chapel.

Each time they leave campus these groups represent the college and do invaluable work in recruitment by encouraging those in their listening audiences to support the college by becoming students or donors.

Dignity Adds to Ceremonies

Taking a break from the usual rautine of classes and studying, students welcame the chance to wear their best clathes and become dignified citizens participating in the special activities on campus.

In the average Huntington College student's campus life there is not only time for work, but time for worship and time for recreation.

Recreation may take varied forms, two of which are clubs and organizations. Depending upon talent and interest, a H.C. student can find that organization, or club in which he, the organization, and the school will benefit by his participation. Each H.C. student who wishes to have a well-rounded college life seeks to find his place in one of these groups.

Organizations and Activities

Frosh Initiated Into H.C. Family

Above Ever heard of the Frosh winning the *ua-of war?

Barely recovering from their scheduling sessions and registration, members of the freshman class were submitted to the torture of initiation by the gleeful sophomores. Each day brought a new calamity! If it wasn't wearing clothes inside-out, it was carrying a paper bag and dixie-cup binoculars and hoping a silly sophamore wouldn't yell "Air Raid!" All this plus boaks and classes and the unforgetable green and red "beanies."

But on Friday, with the annual Freshmen skits and the tug-of-war over the Wabash River, initiations ended and the class of '70 was welcomed in the Huntington College family.

Homecoming Initiates Social Whirl

November 19, the 1967 Homecaming date dawned bright, clear, and chilly as students put the last minute touches on beautiful floats for the parade dawntown. "The Winslow Boy" was the afternoon entertainment presented by the Campus Players.

Beginning the basketball season, our Homecoming game with Gashen was hard-fought. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the 1967 Queen, Alice Grogg, by Dr. Baker.

Tony Fontane Inspires Campus Family

Noted television, radio, movie, and recording star, Tony Fontane presented a concert and chapel program on September 30th. In his program of sacred song, he told of many personal experiences; his youth in a mission home operated by his parents and his rise to fame. Then an auto accident nearly took his life but after his conversion his life was spared. Now he devotes his time and talent to service for Jesus Christ.

Comes to H. C.

The Winslow Boy enjoyed success as this year's Fall Production. The highly dramatic story of a thirteen year old British boy who was expelled from the Osborne Naval Academy, accused of theft. His father, a man of moderate means, yet independent in thought, contests the decision of the Academy. Colorful costumes and sets plus "professional" actors won the acclaim of H.C.'s own critic, Miss Patton.

Experiences and Talents Shared

Chapel Provides for Soul-Searching

Monday, Wednesday, ond Friday at 9:30 is reserved for Chapel which is usually held in the College Park United Brethern Church on College Avenue, three blocks south of the main campus.

The programs planned by the Religious Life and Services Committee are quite varied. Speakers might be faculty members, visiting missionaries, local ministers, or representatives of one of several social services agencies such as the Urbon League, Red Cross, or Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago.

However, not always are chapel programs speakers. They can also be films, concerts, dramatic presentations, or Student Senate sponsored activities. But whatever it might be, they are designed to thrill, inspire, and inform the college family ond help them become better people, more able to cope with odult problems.

Library Is More Than Shelves of Books

Our Leow-Alumni Library is much more than simply row upon row of books. Besides the study-dates, hushed whispers, and pranks, it holds a treasure chest of knowledge for those who are willing to use their available opportunities.

The display windows in the front often show new and interesting books. Bulletin boards feature authors, holidays, or periods of time. The lower display area may have a display of books, photographs, pictures, or hand-crafted objects. And the Faculty Lounge, also in the lower area of the library, is the site of the Coffee Hours where many varied programs are held.

February 18 at the Masonic Temple was the site of the Annual George Washington Birthday Banquet. New hair-dos, best suits, long elegant dresses, and happy smiles proved this was a big event.

Presiding over the evening's festivities was Mr. Earle Gates Jr., as Master of Ceremonies.

Relating various aspects of Washington's public political career, Mr. Michael C. Downs was the evening speaker.

At several intervals musical selections were presented by Vanetta Robinson and John Eastes, Karen Gaskill and Terry Heck, and Linda Cherry and Dave Thrush.

Surely the Banquet's highlight was when Judy Wampler was announced the winner of the essay contest and was presented with a $20 check as first prize. Judy then read her essay, "I Am An American" to the audience. The second prize went to Helen Nell far her essay, "America is My Land."

Singing the Alma Mater led by Don Cottan (opposite left) drew and enjoyable and memorable accasion to a close.

"Kids! I don't know what's wrong with these kids today." sings Kay Landis, Dawn Winger, Bob Jensen, Steve Morin, Helen Nell, Joan Tonkinson, Dole Thrush, and Frank Christian.

Second Annual Musical Presented as "Bye-Bye

Becoming the second annual all-campus Spring Musical, and performance of the comedy satire "Bye-Bye Birdie" was an unqualified success. It would be impossible to estimate the haurs and weeks of work that students contributed to this production. Many nights cast members, orchestra members, and set-designers trudged back to their darm rooms at hours too tired to move but knowing assignments must at least be attempted.

Rehearsals faund director, Dean Cummings, asking cast members to 'practice til perfect'. Their three performances were all complete sell-outs and applause from the warm, and appreciative audience was enough reward for the hard working performers. After their final performance, given for the parents as a climax to Parent's Day, the musical cast had a party and relived their jays and sarraws and already began thinking about next year's Spring Musical. But, "Bye-Bye Birdie," the 1967 Musical was by then history.

A chilly, windy night filled with faod and fun was the setting for the second saphamore spansared Fountain Italiano. Red and white checked tables dotted the center campus. Candles in bottles were an each table, but the brisk wind prevented them from being lit.

Pizza was made to order in the cafeteria and rushed to the tables by red-vested waiters.

Various students presented entertainment. Among these students were Joan Tankinsan, Diane Sawders, Tom Thomas, Diana Russell, Shirley Willis, and Bey Miller.

Cancluding the evening was the showing of "Raison the Sun" in Davis Hall.

The Mnemosyne affice in the basement of Livingston may look totally unorganized to an outsider, but to the staff members, it has a method of organization known only to a journolist. This year's staff had the distinct Officers. Chaney Bergdall, Corol Johnston, Sonny Saufley and Don Cotton.

The Huntington College A Cappella Choir, under the direction of C. Wesley Christian, made its annual Easter tour through five states (Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Kansas). Living from suitcases, hauling risers, distracting the bus driver, and forgetting tuxedoes, accounted for the leisure hours. The serious moments were spent in serving the Lord through heart-felt songs and testimanies. All in all this year's tour was one to remember, especially if it was your first or last.

The Spring tour is only a small part of the choir's activities. Presenting concerts for area churches, clubs, and service organizations is another part. The Choir also performs in chapel and presents concerts on campus several times a year.

The Rotarian's goals are goals of many Americans. We as Junior Rotarians count it a great honor and privilege to be a Junior Rotarian and to have fellowship with you as friends, fellow Americans, and business men who are endeavoring to make a much better world in which others may live. We have accepted the responsibility of thoughtfulness, helpfulness, community-betterment, and advancement of international understanding, good will and peace. The responsibilities and goals of the Rotary Club have also become aurs.

Proverbs 3:5,6 says: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths." With Christ's guidance and strength, we as Junior Rotarians will fulfil our responsibilities to our community, to our fellow Americans, and to the world.

Sincerely, Junior Rotarians

S.E.A. Helps Prepare Future Teachers

Providing a bond of common interest, the Huntington College Chapter of S.E.A. (Student Education Association) helps future educators understand their chosen occupation. This year they heard speakers from White's Institute and local elementary and high schools relate the joys and sorrows of teaching. Films and discussion groups were also part of their programs.

Each year the S.E.A. sponsors the annual Student-Critic Teacher Tea where the student teachers meet their critic teachers in a different setting.

The S.E.A., a student's part of the involved network of the state and national organizations, has conventions and special meetings both at district and state level and is a vital part of campus life.

The Clericus provides a fellowship forum for ministers, theological students, and students preporing for missionary work. The Clericus has members from the College and Seminary, and it promotes the general interest of the Seminary.

"Christian Education" was this year's theme for the Clericus Club. Featured speakers were from the General Department of Christian Education and ministers of the local community. These speakers gave their views of different facets of Christian Education in the church.

The regular monthly meetings of the Clericus contribute to the cultivation of a stronger spiritual leadership in those planning to enter into the ministry or full-time Christian service.

Gospel Volunteers Put Action in Christian Service

Service to God and to fellow man—this is the purpose of the Gospel Volunteers. Members of the Gospel Volunteers meet weekly for a part-inspiration-part-business meeting. Special projects are held on one Sunday afternoon each month. Gospel Valunteers also give of their time by helping in visitations and deputation work in the city and surrounding churches.

Campus Players Promote Dramatics

Creating interest in dramatic entertainment is the majar purpose of Campus Players. They choose the play for the Fall Production and usually, but not always, have a majority of the roles.

Visiting Purdue's drama department and seeing same experimental theater plays was a field trip enjoyed by the member.

This year they also presented a series of plays by James Thurber. They also were very active in "Bye-Bye Birdie," the All-Campus Spring Musical. Small but vibrant under the leadership of their spansar, Mr. Zurcher, Campus Players is a vital part of H.C.

Young Democrats

Sponsoring chapel programs and campus events is only two ways the Y.D.s make their presence known. They were very active in the C.S.R.C. (College Students for Roush Committee), a bi-partisan group supporting J. Edward Roush for Congress, and were quite relieved when he was re-elected.

Young Republicans

Y.R.s used bake sales to raise money for their club and later sent four of their members to the national conventian in Chicago. They also began having a "Y.R. of the Month" in each issue of the Huntingtonian.

Among the several significant elements in the total life of a student in his recreational program. A high premium is placed upon participation in sports. Participation in a sports develops wholesome personal habits, an acquaintance with the laws of health and physical development, and pravides a profitable use of leisure time.

Whether by actual participation or by observation, many students and faculty members enjoy relaxation through othletic activities.

Huntington's athletic program is designed to strengthen the physical life of the student and promote a sense of whalesome competition. As this purpose is being accomplished, the spiritual life is also enriched, for the Christian not only plays with determination to win, but seeks to do so in a cleon and fair manner, showing Christian sportsmanship.

Soccer Added to Collegiate Sports

All eyes on the ball!

Addition of soccer to the M.C.C. roster of inter-collegiate athletics proved to be a wise move. Although our Foresters didn't have a winning season, the experience they gained was invaluable.

Mr. Rondall and his hardworking Woodsmen face next year with high hopes and a confidence gained by the year's experience.

Netmen Finish Fourth in Conference

Not scoring in their last four contests, Huntington Callege's Tennis team ended the season on a sour note. Coach Klopfenstein was still pleased since their competition has been toughest at the season's end and three members on his six-man team were new.

Landing a fourth place rating in the Conference rating, the Foresters had a 3-7 Conference record and 5 wins and 8 losses for the year.

Coach David Martz, Fred Fisher, Art Obregon, Terry Dailey, Thaine Campbell, and Dave Kelty.

Cinderman Have High Hopes for Next Year

Track never has been a strong spart at Huntington, but this year's team proved that this presumption need not always be. Winning several of their meets, our cindermen often surprised their opponents. With the experience gained this year, they should do even better next year.

Education with a Christian Purpose—this is the aim of Huntington College. Huntington students accomplish this aim by well-rounded education offered by the liberal arts program of the college. A basis for specialized training is laid by majoring in ane particular area, which is chosen by the student. Minds are disciplined to acquire knowledge through class attendance, study, and research. Spiritual life is cultivated through Bible study and the practice of other Christian disciplines. This interrelated program of the scholastic and the spiritual produces mature Christians.

H.C. Students Receive Honor

Huntington College proudly presents ten students to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. These honored students are elected to this nationally recognized organization on the basis of "character, scholarship, participation in extra-curricular activities, service to the school, and potentiality for future usefulness in business and society." Each student is presented with a certificate of recognition and is privileged to wear the official key—the symbol of outstanding achievement in college.

Huntington College extends her sincerest congratulations and best wishes to each of these students.

Seniors Reflect Upon College Years

Finally Seniors, the Class of '67 onxiously await that day in June when they'll no longer face reading cards, dorm hours, term papers, or 7:30 classes!

They built their last Homecoming Floot, struggled through their last set of exoms, and onxiously waited replies from job interviews. The Senior year is a fun-filled, never-to-be-forgotten year of Senior pictures, "Ship Day," and fond good-bys to classmates who have shared our joys and sorrows, triumphs and defeots, over the past four years.

Yet the Seniors look ohead to their chosen professions, whether it be graduate work, teaching, business, homemaking, or o branch of the service; and confidently assume their roles in the competitive adult world.

Icy Splendor Seen in 1967

The worst storm in ten years crippled Huntington at the end of January. Although the starm's damage was extensive, it's beauty was undeniable. A coating of glimmering crystal covered everything magicly transforming ordinary objects into a sparkling fairyland. Even when 1967 is gone, the January ice story will be long remembered.

Juniors Past Half-Way Mark

Finally passing the half-way mark in their college careers, the Juniors revel in their superior status. Not near enough to graduation to worry about jobs and far enough past the traditional "sophomore slump" to have almost forgotten it, the Juniors feverishly planned the Junior-Senior Reception paid for by their successful tenderloin fry.

As the year ends, they look forward to becoming Seniors and yet, already they look back, knowing the past years are gone—now remembered but never relived.

No Longer "Greenies", Sophomores Return

With their "beanies" packed away in the souvenirs and paraphernalia of their first year of college, the sophomores return with confidence and experience. They delighted in "helping" the freshmen get accustamed to college life by submitting them to the rigors of Initiation (including the traditional tug-of-war). They worked together building a float for Homecoming and planning the Second Annual Pizza Italiano. Looking forward to the completion of this year, the sophomores can then say they are half done!

Freshmen Face New Challenges

Leaving the security of home and high school, 133 members of the freshman class eagerly accept the challenge of college life. Finally surviving the pains of placement exams, registration lines, and initiation, they gladly become bona fide H.C.ers doing their part to make Huntington the great place it is.

They made it through their first set of midterms (including the "D-slip" guessing game) and finals and look forward to their sophomore year and even more college experience.

PANORAMA

A pause.
We turn and take
A backward glance at
Our years past.

We behold...
A profusion of memories.
The record has been written.
We are proud.
And we are glad that our Fortunes let us walk
This way.
